

Dear Sirs:

I would like to comment on the above proposed action by the FCC. My understanding is that your department proposes to convert some of the FM translator service frequencies to LPFM frequencies for local station use. This action would in turn not allow me to hear the nationally radio station, KLOVE, which uses the following translator frequencies in Arizona: 100.9, 100.5, 105.5.

You many be wondering why I need three frequencies to listen to KLOVE. Any one of these frequencies does not cover the Tucson area where I live and work. Since I'm in my car travelling all around the city at least 3 hours per day, I have all three frequencies set on my preset buttons. Listening to KLOVE on the internet would not be a satisfactory solution since I can't connect from my car.

Listening to KLOVE is important to me and my family. KLOVE is the only station that does not use foul language or discuss inappropriate (sex, drugs) in either its music or disc jockey dialouge. As a parent of teen agers, this is very important to me.

Thank you for your consideration in keeping the FM translators which make listening to KLOVE possible here in Tucson on the air.

Sincerely,

Martha Vance
Tucson, Arizona
